EQ & Star Qualities. part 2

This week we are teaching our students real life examples of EQ (Emotional Quotient) and IQ (Intelligence) in the workforce. A police officer would need to be patient and manage their emotions (EQ). They also need to know the laws and understand our government and judicial system (IQ). Both EQ and IQ are needed to be successful. One part of being successful is to have the most good days possible. Success can also mean that a person is accomplishing their goals. A big part of success is EQ. We are teaching our students that they can raise their EQ by learning more about themselves and others. What does your child want to be when they grow up? How could they use EQ to be successful?
